Act 2. Everything solid fades away 6/10/2020 - 30/07/2021

Our current exhibition presents twenty-one pieces from the Suñol Soler Collection with one feature in common: all the works show an abstract style. Abstraction, in painting or sculpture, is characterized by a taste for open, imprecise, indeterminate, non-figurative forms that do not recall anything in particular or that recall many elements at the same time. This suggestive character, full of possibilities, has fascinated artists of all times who have used abstraction as a language for their creations.

In the exhibition, therefore, you will find works by many different artists, from different periods and styles, who understand abstraction in multiple ways: investigating shapes, exploring with colours, working with textures or proposing open themes.

For this reason, there is not a single abstraction, but many, and each one points a different path. It takes opening your eyes and mind to discover the possibilities and let your imagination guide you.
